LOCAL NEWS.

—See "Notice, Teachers." —Read Administrator's Sale. —Read T. K. Elliott's ad. He offers you guano for cotton.

—Mrs. M. E. Landecker is ill at her home on College street.

—Monday being sales day, there was something of a crowd in town.

—Mrs. Joel W. Ashford is sick at her home in the Horeb neighborhood.

—Two cottages at the factory are now occupied by families expecting to work in the factory.

—Mr. Till has returned to Rockton to take charge of the store belonging to Major T. W. Woodward.

—Rev. John T. Chalmers, of Charlotte, conducted services at the A. R. P. Church on Wednesday afternoon.

—Bargain counter—collars, 5c; cravats, 5c; neckties, 10c; regular price $1.

—Caldwell & Ruff.

—See Caldwell & Ruff's advertisement—spring styles, prints, percales, shirt waists and hundreds of other things.

—Messrs. A. Y. Milling and C. A. Lucas have formed a copartnership, and will occupy the store room vacated by J. L. Beatty.

—Professor Withrow has decided to use the columns of the Herald for a public honor roll. We wonder how many names will be on the first list the first month.

—A horse sold at the sale on Monday for a dollar and eighty-five cents, and a cart for two dollars and seventy-five cents. This seems to us quite a reasonable turn-out.

—A wedding in town is reported for this month. The young ladies' curiosity will be excited by this item, but newspaper reporters never violate confidential communications.

—The County Treasurer warns you that as the expiration of the time appointed by the resolution of the General Assembly his books will be turned over to the County Auditor.

—Messrs. George McMaster and David Elliott, and Misses Jennings and Bertha Robinson, having no services at their respective churches, attended preaching at Greenbrier on Sunday.

—Mr. R. Brandt, of Chester, was married Wednesday to Miss Rainey, of York County. Mr. Brandt is one of our advertisers, and is well known in this county. We extend to him and his bride our best wishes.

—Mr. George V. Hennies, of Columbia, has rented that portion of the Thespian Hall used as a photograph gallery and will be here in the next few days. Watch out for his advertisement.

—The remains of Mrs. Mary Taylor, of Charlotte, N. C., were brought to Winoboro on Wednesday and interred in the A. R. P. cemetery. She was a cousin of the late Mr. Andrew Timms, of our town. Rev. C. E. McDonald conducted the funeral services.

—The remodeling of the old jail kitchen is progressing rapidly, and in the course of a few weeks it will be ready for the County Auditor and County Superintendent of Education. The building has been improved a great deal, and will make very good offices.

—At the last meeting of the steam fire company resolutions were formed requesting the president to send a select team to take part in the tournament soon to be held in Columbia. Some of the young men seem quite enthusiastic, and are anxious to compete for the prizes offered.

—Grant Young was shoeing a young mule on Tuesday, and the mule became frightened, and gave a jerk throwing Grant Young several feet in the air. This occurred at Arthur Hinna's blacksmith shop. Grant is in a very serious condition, and seems to have been paralyzed from his injuries. He declares that he will never shoe another young mule as long as he lives. He is confined to his bed, and is suffering a great deal of pain. Later—Grant has since died.
